DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 64 and 65 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Adamian et al. (US 6,653,848).

Referring to claims 64, Adamian et al. discloses a system for characterizing a device under test, the system comprising: an input subsystem configured to inject a signal into the device under test and to measure the response of the device under test (column 11, lines 2-6); and a routine for automatically determining the frequency domain impedance of a power delivery system of the device under test by constructing an s-parameter matrix and calculating the real and imaginary portions of the impedance based on the s-parameter matrix (column 4, lines 3-8 and column 51, lines 56-63).

Referring to claim 65, Adamian et al. discloses the system as claimed, further including a routine for converting the frequency domain impedance to a time domain impedance by performing an inverse Fourier transform on the complex impedance (column 11, lines 2-20 and column 51, lines 56-63).

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claim 66 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

4. Claims 1-63 and 67-107 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed October 17, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

6. In response to Applicants arguments with respect to claims 64 and 65, that "Adamian et al. fails to disclose a routine for automatically determining the frequency domain impedance of a power delivery system of the device under test, and fails to disclose a routine for converting the frequency domain impedance to a time domain impedance" (page 37, fourth paragraph), it should be noted that Adamian et al. discloses the claimed limitations as shown in the rejection, above. Adamian et al. discloses the DUT may be susceptible to noise from the power supply (column 4, lines 3-8) and that the frequency domain impedance is converted to a time domain impedance (column 11, lines 2-20). It should also be noted that all the limitations of claim 64 are disclosed as prior art in the background section of the specification of this application (page 4, lines 15-22).

Final Rejection

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
